

We Remember

Words and Music by Allan Crossley

Chorus

We remember a time when the fighting ceased

We remember a time when there was peace

The world was quiet for a heartbeat

And then

The birds started singing again

There was a promise of spring again

We remember, we remember, we remember

Verse One

It seems so long ago and far away

In places that are only names

Fathers and husbands and sons

Mothers and daughters left their homes

Giving their all for what they believed

Giving their all for those they had to leave

To Chorus

Verse Two

We stand to laud the fallen and the brave
Who stood for us in harm's way
Marking with crosses those lives
Who'll never see these morning skies
And by this silence we do proclaim
Remembering now their sacrifice, their names

To Chorus

Coda

In that moment of silence
I can hear my heart beat
Surrounded by silent witnesses
Who guard our peace
We remember a time when the fighting ceased
We remember a time when there was peace
The world was quiet for a heartbeat
And then
The birds started singing again
There was a promise of spring again
We remember, we remember, we remember, we remember, we remember, we remember
