

Colonizing Outer Space

Imagine our world is coming to the brink of extinction and your crew is being tasked with discovering new and potential undiscovered (or even populated) worlds. Your goal is to document (in whatever format) the colonization of somewhere in outer space.

	Extending	Proficient	Developing	Emerging
Setting		Student is able to properly describe the setting they find themselves in. Students utilized their 5 senses in their description.	Student attempted to properly describe the setting they find themselves in. Students tried to utilize their 5 senses in their description.	Student is not able to properly describe the setting they find themselves in. Students did not utilize their 5 senses in their description.
Interactions		Student is properly able to explore the interactions between characters, planets, and/or beings with success.	Student attempts to be able to explore the interactions between characters, planets, and/or beings with some success.	Student is attempts to be able to explore the interactions between characters, planets, and/or being with little to no success.
Discovering		Student is properly able to examine the realities that a colonizee or colonizing power would have on a new planet or from a new populous.	Student attempts to properly be able to examine the realities that a colonizee or colonizing power would have on a new planet or from a new populous with some success.	Student is not properly able to examine the realities that a colonizee or colonizing power would have on a new planet or from a new populous with success.
Observations		Students are properly able to describe their observations of new places with both abstract (emotional) and concrete (physical) description.	Students attempts to properly be able to describe their observations of new places with both abstract (emotional) and concrete (physical) description with some success	Students are not properly able to describe their observations of new places with both abstract (emotional) and concrete (physical) description with success.

This rubric was created with Quick Rubric and can be found at - <http://www.quickrubric.com/r#/qr/mrmurray/colonizing-outer-space>