Try it out!	Review last week's video again https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=4vZ5mlfZlgk&t=12s this time try to clap along with the rhythm and say the ta's and titi's while it plays.	Listen to the recording of "Apples, Peaches" on this week's blog. Fill in the worksheet from the blog following the instructions. Here are the words: Apples, Peaches Apples, peaches, pears, plums Tell me when your birthday comes.	Use the body chart on the blog and have a helper point to a spot on the body. Name the body part and try to move to the music using only this body part with your own body (or leading with it). Try to experiment using the following types of movement. a) bending b) stretching c) twisting and turning	For this activity, it might be helpful to first complete the practice activity. Find a move that you can do for "ta"(one sound), a move for the "titi's" (2 sounds) This is called "body percussion". Like you're using your body as a drum. Practice reciting "Apples, peaches" with the recording on the blog, using your moves without losing the beat.
