

The Never-Ending Story

The story below has numerous errors. Use the symbols in the key and replace/add the correct words, letters, and marks.

Key
≡	capitalize	¶	new paragraph
“ ”	place quotations	word	delete
◉	place period	/	make lowercase
^	add word	)	close up space
^	add comma	∨	insert apostrophe
↵	reverse letters	!	add exclamation mark in the land of tartary their once Live a prince who's name was Shah Riyar nowe, as a yuth he had been deceive by his beautiful wife who he beheaded in a furry. his anger was so great thet he hated all woman and trusted the faithfullness of non however, a prints must have a bride shah riyar order his viziari, or cheif councilor, to search the land four young mai dens daily each maiden he marryed he would behead at sun rise the following day. This way he could be sure that she would not decieve him. as you might expect, after three years the vizier have great dificulty finding new maiden's for his master. Those family's witch still had young girls hide their children Knowing the shahs mad mind the vizier panicked if he failed to find a young woman for his master his own lives would soon be over. now this loyal consular had two daughters what he loved deerly. The older named Sheherazade was as intelligent. And wise as her father. She new her fathers life was in jeopardy There fore she said father, please send me me to shah riyar that your life may be saved. it may be that allah will be grascious and my lifes will be spared though he could not bare the though of loosing sheherazade, the reluctant vizier finally agreed to take her to the shahs when the prince saw the beautiful girl, fell in love. Yet, as with the others, he Promised himself she too would die before the night blossomed in to day. For, he thought, he is so lovely she mussed be duplicitous when the Day's light began to fall sheherazade asked. The prince May I see my sister before i died? To this he gave his permission. When Dunyazad, the younger sister, arrived, she beg sheherazade for a story. This, thought the child may postpone the death of my sibling. shah riyar readily gave his permission. he loved stories and staid to here the tale sheherazade, a marvelous spinner off tales, continued her narrative all night long. when the suns rising brightened the eastern, she retched a Exciting part of the story here she stoped for sunrise was the time of Execution however her story had sew interest the shah he decided to spared her life, til the story was fully tolled After a second nights telling she paused at yet another exciting passage and was gave another day's reprieve from execution And so it continue for a 1,001 nights until finally Shah riyar awaken from his madness and announced an end to his evul ways the prince and. His wife lived happily for many years. The stories sheherazade told are recorded in the Tales from the 1001 Arabian nights.